			the van.
	<	C	The frictional force of the road on the tyres is in the direction of motion of the van.
×	<	D	The frictional force of the road on the tyres is in the opposite direction to the motion of the van.

The frictional force of the road on the tyres is equal to the resultant force on

(Total for Question 3 = 1 mark)

A van travels along a straight, horizontal road at a constant velocity.

A The frictional force of the road on the tyres can be ignored.

Which of the following statements is correct?